

Name: Adeyinka Jeremy Adedeji (DVM, MSc)
Viral Research Division
National Veterinary Research Institute
PMB 01, Vom, Nigeria
+2348033557985
Email: yinkadeji@yahoo.com

Adeyinka Adedeji is a Principal Veterinary Research Officer at National Veterinary Research Institute, Vom, Nigeria. He is a veterinarian and holds an MSc degree from Ahmadu Bello University Zaria, Nigeria. Adeyinka has worked as a team member on the National surveillance of African swine fever and development of Lumpy skin disease, sheep and goat pox vaccines in Nigeria. Adeyinka has also carried out research on Marek's disease, lumpy skin disease and Sheep and goat pox viruses in Nigeria. He has research interest in the development/adoption of pen side techniques for the confirmatory diagnosis of livestock diseases in resource limited countries like Nigeria.

Peer review publication

Fasina F.O, Shamaki D., Makinde A.A., Lombin L.H., Lazarus D.D., Rufai S.A., Adamu S.S., Agom D., Pelayo V., Soler A., Simon A., Adedeji A.J., Yakubu M.B., Mantip S., Benschak A.J., Okeke, Anagor P., Mandeng D C., Akanbi B.O., Ajibade A.A., Faramade I., Kazeem M.M., Enurah L.U., Bishop R., Anuchuelo R. Martin J.H., Gallardo C. Surveillance for African Swine Fever in Nigeria 2006-2009 (2010). Journal of Transboundary and Emerging Diseases. doi:10.1111/j.1865-1682.2010.01142.x